

METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR SAVING AND RECALLING BILL OF MATERIAL INFORMATION

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- 5 A network-based method for saving and recalling bill of material information includes receiving bill of material specification information from a user and using a server to compare the received specification information with pre-stored information. The method also includes selecting at least one bill of material that matches the received specification information and displaying to the user information related to the bill of material, and providing the user the option of ordering the product on the bill of material.